Stennis Asks For Jury To Determine Price Of Land

ARGUMENTS IN HANCOCK CASE HEARD

The Mississippi Supreme Court heard arguments this week that an equal representation of the Hancock County Board of Supervisors violated the state and federal constitutions.

Attorney Upton Sisson of Gulfport, representing Powell Glass Jr., of Bay St. Louis, told the court the state Constitution required each county have five seats laid out "with due regard to equality in population."

Sisson said that the five seats were population than the other four seats combined.

He said, also, that the 14th Amendment to the federal constitution requiring equal protection for all under the law.

The Supreme Court heard Glass' suit against the county election commission on appeal from Hancock Chancery Court, where Chancellor William Hewes of Gulfport upheld the commission's decision that the law provided adequate remedies to the situation.

The law permits citizens to petition for a redistricting. Sisson said he felt the courts could act when situations violated the Constitution.

He asked a court order to prohibit future elections for supervisors until the situation is changed.

Later, he said he felt such an order would block holding the general election for supervisor in 1965 and would require present supervisors remain in office until new elections were held following redistricting.

He said this case can be conducted in our state courts without having to go into federal court, although federal questions are involved," Sisson told the Supreme Court.

He said efforts had been made to secure a petition, but they failed. "They probably did not get enough signatures, politics being what they are."

He asked the Supreme Court to ask the Chancery Court to give Glass a full hearing on his suit for a court order.

The suit was filed Feb. 13 and was heard Feb. 27.

The Supreme Court, handed down no decision during its second sitting of the term. First decisions are expected to come down next Monday.

The court took the Glass case under study and will rule later.

ARTS AND CRAFTS FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 20

The Hancock County Home Extension Council is sponsoring an Arts and Crafts Fair from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. Friday, September 20, at the Methodist Fellowship Center.

WASHINGTON - Senator John Stennis this week called for a jury trial as a matter of right to determine the price a landowner should be paid for property obtained by the federal government to build the rocket engine testing site in South Mississippi.

Stennis introduced a bill in the Senate urging that defendants be given "the right to a determination by a jury of the amount of just compensation" they will receive for their real property taken by the federal government in condemnation proceedings.

Stennis said, "In many cases, there is an honest difference of opinion between the landowners and the Corps of Engineers (the federal government's land acquisition agent) as to the actual value of the property to be acquired."

"In such cases where the landowners and the Engineers fail to negotiate a settlement, a condemnation suit in federal court is filed and a trial is held to determine the value of the land and the amount to be received by the landowner for the property taken."

Stennis said outright title or easements on about 140,000 acres is to be acquired for the location of the Mississippi Testing Operations in Hancock and Pearl River Counties of South Mississippi.

Stennis noted that "many settlements have already been made on certain land parcels, and Congress, of course, has appropriated the money to buy the land."

"My bill will ensure that every landowner whose property is taken by the United States under the power of eminent domain will be entitled to have a jury trial to decide the issue of just compensation, by filing a request for a jury trial."

Under present law, a jury trial is authorized in such land cases, but may be waived at the discretion of the court.

Stennis, a former Circuit Judge, said:

"I am hopeful that, even under the present law, the Court will grant a jury trial in all cases where the landowner requests it where the landowner is entitled to a jury trial as a matter of right."

"It is the fair way. It is just. It is the American way."

RACE FOR SUPT. OF EDUCATION STILL UNSETTLED

The race for the office of Superintendent of Education to serve Hancock County for the next four years, remains unsettled as of this date.

Although the Hancock County Democratic Executive Committee has officially declared Robert Frank Ladner the nominee by a four-vote majority, incumbent Kenneth G. McCarty has protested to the committee, claiming irregularities in seven of the ten Beat Five precincts, and has asked that elections be held in these places.

Mr. McCarty, through his attorneys, has asked the Executive Committee for a hearing, and if this is refused, will carry his protests to the courts.

Mr. Ladner, the declared nominee, is opposing this protest, and is asking the committee to stand pat on their decision.

So far, the ballots have been recounted by the Executive Committee and again by the attorneys for both the incumbent and his opponent. Now the final decision rests either with the committee or the court.

The unofficial count of the votes on August 27th, gave Ladner, 2741 and McCarty, 2732, a difference of nine votes in favor of Ladner.

WELFARE OFFICE TO CLOSE ON SATURDAYS

The Hancock County Department of Public Welfare office on Veterans Avenue will discontinue opening on Saturday, Miss T. J. Favre, acting agent, announced.

The closing was requested by State Department of Public Welfare, which announced that the office will close on Saturdays.

The Hancock County grand jury said in a final report Thursday it has named a committee to meet with the board of supervisors on plans to construct a new courthouse or to renovate the present facility in Bay St. Louis.

Named to the committee were Joseph F. Richardson, chairman, Pat Koenen, Lucien E. Favre, and Leonard B. Ladner.

Koenen was foreman of the 17-man panel which returned 23 true bills, examined 48 witnesses and investigated 28 cases during four days in session. The report, tendered to Circuit Judge Leslie B. Grant, said two cases were remanded to justice of the peace courts and three cases were nolle.

The jury said four members of the board of supervisors had met with the panel to discuss "the inadequacy" of existing courthouse facilities "to handle the business and county affairs of Hancock County."

"It now appears that two proposals will be eventually placed before the people of the county: one, a proposal for a new courthouse at a different location with an estimate as to how much it would cost, and secondly, a renovation and addition to the presently existing courthouse."

The grand jury committee is to meet with supervisors in November "after these plans have been formulated" and will report on action taken to the next grand jury, the report said.

COURTHOUSE

The panel scored the present courthouse facilities as being "extremely dirty" and repeated a request that county jail prisoners be put to work to clean it up "with at least soap and water."

The jury also recommended: Use of prisoners serving sentences to do other public work in the county since, "if they are required to work they will be less likely to return as often."

Separate facilities for female prisoners in the county jail.

Closer supervision of the activities of county jail trustees.

School officials arrange for high school students to attend sessions of circuit court to hear proceedings and "to understand the consequences of failure to follow the law."

Keeping of more complete records by investigating officers of cases brought before the grand jury.

Legislation to provide "at least one investigator" for the district attorney's office to assist local officers in preparation of cases.

The jury said it found the Hancock County Hospital and Home for the Indigent to be in excellent condition.

Hancock Grand Jury Report

IN THE CIRCUIT COURT OF
HANCOCK COUNTY, MISSISSIPPI
SEPTEMBER TERM A. D. 1963

To the Honorable Leslie B. Grant, Circuit Judge, Presiding:

We, the Grand Jury, having been duly empaneled, sworn and charged at the term aforesaid of the Court aforesaid, have been in session for four days during which time we have examined 46 witnesses, investigated 28 cases and returned 23 true indictments, and remanded two cases to the Justice of the Peace Court, and returned 3 no-bills.

We have inspected the County Jail and we find that generally it is in a clean and recently painted condition. We do find, however, that there are no separate facilities for the female prisoners and that some provision should be made so that they could be kept with some degree of privacy from the rest of the prisoners. We also noted that the jail was extremely over-crowded and that large number of prisoners serving sentences from the Justice of the Peace Courts are not working. We note that the previous Grand Jury has recommended that these prisoners be put upon the roads of the County and put to some useful employment.

We also find that they could be used in cleaning the Courthouse.

said loan to be paid back September 1963.

The above motion was unanimously adopted by the Board.

INTER FUND LOAN

Upon motion of Supervisor Frierson duly seconded by Supervisor Dean that the Clerk of this Board is hereby authorized and directed to issue warrant in the amount of $500.00 payable to R&B No. 5 as an inter fund loan, said loan to be paid back July, 1963.

AUTHORIZE ENGINEER TO MAKE SURVEY

Upon motion of Supervisor Dean duly seconded by Supervisor Nacaise that the County Engineer be and he is hereby directed to make survey of Ansley Road from lower Bay Road to U. S. Highway 90.

The above motion was unanimously adopted by the Board.

REQUEST EMPLOYMENT OFFICE

Upon motion of Supervisor Dean duly seconded by Supervisor Lavinghouse that the Clerk of this Board is hereby authorized and directed to wire Mr. Layne Hart of the Mississippi Employment Bureau, NASA, Michoud, also the State Employment Bureau at Jackson, Mississippi urging a full time employment office established in Bay St. Louis, Hancock County, Mississippi.

The above motion was unanimously adopted by the Board.

as will be noted from our recommendation with reference to the courthouse which will follow:

Other adjoining counties are using the prisoners to work for the County, as the law contemplates they should do when serving a sentence and when the County is required to pay the very high cost of feeding and housing and guarding them. We find the County is now paying a prison guard. We strongly recommend, as have previous Grand Juries, that the Board of Supervisors take immediate action to utilize the services of these prisoners. We feel that this is just as important a part of the punishment of these people as confining them, since we do not want them to feel that they have permanent hotel facilities at the expense of the people of Hancock County. If they are required to work, they will be less likely to return as often.

We have noted some irregular conduct on the part of Trustees in the jail, which will be evidenced by other action taken by us. We strongly urge that the Sheriff be extremely careful of the Trustees selected and that these Trustees not be permitted access outside of the jail except in the day time and then only under surveillance.

We also have had instances called to our attention where prisoners have brought things into the jail. No prisoner should be permitted to transport anything into the jail except through the Sheriff's office.

We have inspected carefully the Hancock County Courthouse and we find first of all that it is extremely dirty and that it should be cleaned and kept clean. We would strongly suggest again, as have other Grand Juries, and as we have done earlier in this report, that the prisoners be put to work with at least soap and water which would result in a general face-lifting of what we now have and must use until additional facilities are provided.

We have also had under consideration and discussion the adequacy of the present facilities to handle the business and county affairs of Hancock County. The Board of Supervisors, with the exception of one is ill, have appeared before us and we have had a general discussion about this matter. It now appears that two proposals will be eventually placed before the people of the County: One, a proposal for a new Courthouse at a different location with an estimate as to how much it would cost, and secondly, a renovation and addition to the presently existing courthouse. We urge all the people of the County to acquaint themselves with this problem and to express their wish.

We further urge all Justice of the Peace Courts of the County to be more careful in seeing that these records are complete

they are promptly transmitted to the Circuit Clerk to be placed upon the Grand Jury docket.

We feel that it is the interest of a number of criminal cases that would be most helpful if the Legislature would provide at least one investigator for the District Attorney's office to assist the local officers in the preparation of these cases for their presentation and prosecution, and we have so urged upon the elected members of the Legislature of this county. We wish to express our appreciation to the members of the Board of Supervisors who answered our call to appear before us on short notice, and we appreciate the advice and help they rendered.

We wish to express our appreciation to the Circuit Clerk for his preparation of the docket and the courtesies extended to us, to the Sheriff and Deputies and their assistants for their work and cooperation to his honor for his able and informative charge to us, and to the District Attorney and his able assistants for their assistance during our deliberations.

And now, having concluded our labors, we beg to stand finally discharged.

Respectfully submitted

What nostalgic memories this picture brings. Every Sunday morning we used to drive to Church in Pop's old "flivver," picking up the Parson on the way.

Today I live in a great city. I ride commuter's trains, and dictate letters, and spend endless hours "in conference."

But I've never forgotten our Church in the field. It plowed deep furrows in my life, and planted the seeds of real happiness.

Now I worship in a big city church. You might think it would be different; but it isn't. Folks are just as friendly. The Truth is just the same. And God is just as close.

You see, in the country or in the city, Christians are conscientious people trying to be better. And for folks like you and me who worship God, the Church—big or little—is home.

REGULATIONS
CHANGES MAKES
STUDENTS ELIGIBLE
DEFERMENT

Colonel C. S. Sanders, Jr., State Director of Selective Service, announced that due to a recent change in regulations classification of students has been so liberalized as to make all male students attending college eligible for deferment, or to be in Class I-S as students. "Heretofore," he said, "a student must have had a specified percentile standing in his class to be eligible for deferment for this next academic year. Now, 'he pointed out,' all the student has to do is to be enrolled and meet the academic requirements of the college to be eligible for consideration for deferment by his local board. This liberal policy of student deferment is due primarily to a large pool of Class I-A men, and the low call for induction into the armed forces."

The State Director warned Selective registrants not to misinterpret this to mean an automatic deferment. "It is still left to the discretion of the local board," he reminded. "However, it is a strong national and state policy to defer most college students where there is no morale problem involved."

The State Director further stated that the regulations provide for a registrant to be placed in the lowest class for which he is determined to be eligible. Therefore, if the student is taking ROTC, or in the reserve, he will be placed in Class I-D, or if he is married and has a child, with whom he is maintaining a bona fide family relationship, he will be classified III-A. These classes are lower than I-S classification. Therefore, a student will not necessarily be in Class I-S if evidence is in his file to justify a lower classification.

"The regulation is so written," Colonel Sanders said, "to extend a young man's liability for service if deferred prior to his reaching twenty-six years of age. However, the fact remains that in most cases a registrant will discharge his military obligation before reaching twenty-six by entering on active duty or entering a reserve component of the armed forces."

Those who are deferred beyond twenty-six years because of dependency, essential employment, or for other legal reasons, will be liable for induction any time before

NASA
News..

GAINEVILLE, Miss. — Mississippi Test Operations, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's rocket testing facility now under construction in Hancock County, Miss., now has 481 persons working on the site. Here is a breakdown of the personnel: NASA, 29; General Electric, 29; U. S. Army Corps of Engineers, (Gainesville) 43; Corps of Engineers, (Bay St. Louis) 48; Construction Contractors, 320; Weather Bureau and U. S. Weather Bureau (Atmospheric Sounding Station), 14.

The number of construction personnel will grow steadily until there are about 3,000 persons on the site by next year. When the facility goes into peak operation, it will employ about 2,500 permanent personnel.

Mississippi Test Operations - a part of the NASA Marshall Space Flight Center in Huntsville, Ala., will be the rocket testing site for NASA's huge rocket engines and stages which will be used in this nation's Manned Lunar Landing Program.

Colonel D. A. Raymond, U. S. Army District Engineer at Mobile, Alabama, announced today the award of a $1,289,191 contract to the Farrell Construction Company of Memphis, Tennessee, for the construction of dock facilities at the Mississippi Test Facility, Hancock County, Mississippi, for the George C. Marshall Space Flight Center of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. The docks will serve cryogenic cargo reaching twenty-eight or thirty-five years of age, as the case may be. "Under the student deferment program," Colonel Sanders continued, "a registrant may be deferred to get his Master's and Doctor's degree, and at the same time have his liability extended to the age of thirty-five. The armed forces are in need of men with special skills, as the services are becoming more specialized."

While furnishing manpower for the armed forces is the primary mission of Selective Service, the State Director emphasized it is of paramount importance, and the responsibility of the local board, to defer men who are essential to the local community, state and nation, in a civilian capacity.

Colonel Sanders stated that most Junior and Senior colleges will notify Selective Service when the registrants enroll, graduate or otherwise drop out. He also reminded and requested that all male students present their Selective Service Registration Certificates (SSS Form 2) to the registrar at the time they enter college, in order that the school may secure their correct Selective Service Number. Furthermore, he reminded that the law requires the registrant to have his Registration Certificate on his person at all times, as prima facie evidence of being registered with Selective Service.

Social Security

Applying for social security benefits is a very simple matter. There are more than 600 offices scattered throughout the United States where you can get assistance in making your claim. In addition, there are hundreds of other locations where social security field representatives meet with people to take their claims for benefits.

Information regarding these locations is available from your postmaster. In addition to claims assistance, these offices issue social security numbers, they advise wage earners, self-employed persons and survivors of their social security rights and responsibilities and they advise and assist in deduction.

SOIL
NEWS

About five years ago the Sportsman's Club of Sumrall, Mississippi, one of them dedicated enough to drive a hundred miles, and back for a half-day's fishing, to preserve the prospects for hunting and fishing in their own community.

Land? They could - and did lease 200 acres of 16th Section land for a recreation area, applied for and received a soil conservation district farm plan.

Water? With Soil Conservation Service assistance, the designed and dug a 10-acre lake, kept it fertilized and stocked with fish.

Game. They obtained bi-color plants from the Lamar County Soil Conservation District and got Soil Conservation Service advice in establishing plots for quail. They report plentiful supplies of quail and squirrels. Several years ago they also contacted the State Game and Fish Commission and "planted" deer.

Since the Mississippi Forestry Commission manages forests on 16th-Section land, the sportsmen cooperate with them in maintaining and harvesting the timber.

They have also built barbecue pits and picnic shelters, and plan to increase their membership of 40 to take care of costs of building a 35-acre lake now under construction. They do not permit use of motor boats or unsupervised swimming. The larger lake may accommodate skiing.

The community of Sumrall shares in the fun. Last year one of the members, Sidney Carruth, organized a fishing rodeo for the children of the area. Members gave silver dollars for prizes.

"It was a success," said Odie Malone, Rt. 2, Sumrall, president of the club. "The children caught some nice fish and had a grand outing. We plan to put the rodeo on as an annual event."

Mr. Malone is a retired Navy Commander, who settled in the county to farm.

Like three-fourths of the other members of the Sumrall Sportsman's Club, Mr. Malone is a farmer-cooperator with the Lamar County Soil Conservation District. Secretary-Treasurer is H. C. Brannon, Sumrall merchant. L. A. Eaton, the local druggist, is one of the club's directors and chairman of the committee responsible for constructing the new dam.

The members have been generous in opening their area to the community. It is evident that church groups and Boy Scouts can find camp sites close at hand. And each of them, in the words of H. C. Brannon, is tickled with "this place of our own where we can fish if we have an hour."

ANNOUNCING A
NEW CONCEPT IN HOME COMFORTflameless
ELECTRIC HEAT

A scant 10 years ago heating the home by electricity was almost unheard of. Today, more than one-and-a-quarter million families are heating with electricity — and the number is growing at the impressive rate of one every 3 1/2 minutes.

Every day, more and more Mississippians are finding out why flameless electric heat is the up-to-date method of comfort-conditioning their homes. Here is why we believe it will pay you to look into Mississippi Power Company's heating program:

WHY should I install electric heat? you may ask. It's a sound question for any homeowner or prospective homeowner to ask, for a heating system is the heart of the modern home.

First, consider this fact: Electric heat is flameless — that is, unlike other heating systems, it requires no combustion. This means that electric heating is as clean as electric light, so there's no smoke or soot... no fire or dust... no settling on walls, furniture or your favorite drapes.

Then, think of electric heating as a long term investment. In this era of rising prices, the unit price of electricity has steadily declined, while the cost of other fuels has continued to go up. This means that electricity as a fuel source is a bigger bargain than ever before — now, and in the future.

Then there's the ease of operation and maintenance. This means money in your pocket, too. There is no fire box to burn out, no pilot light to give trouble, no periodic cleaning necessary. Is it any wonder that happy homeowners are shouting the praises of wonderful electric heat? But don't take our word for it. Let us show you the results of people who are already the proud owners of modern electric heating systems.

Just call or go by your nearest Mississippi Power Company office, or, if you prefer, send in the coupon below.

Catch Ketchum

This weekend was terrible on fishing, high tides above normal due to Hurricane Cindy, which hit the Texas Coast Monday was out of the question. Some fishermen ventured out regardless, and had little luck. As for speckle trout out at the marshes, August Rauxet and Chas. Fudge and others reported catching 150 pounds of speckles. Looks like the speckles are really coming in. The fish weighed 2 pounds and better. August is vice president of the local Gun and Rod Club and a fish fry is scheduled for next Saturday night. Fried fish will be the main dish with Wop Salad added. There are 100 members in the club and the affair should be a gala affair.

Membership is $2.00 a year. If you are a hunter or fisherman you can join the club by contacting Alvin Genin, secretary. There are at present 100 registered members.

The first part of the dove season is now open and according to those going out there are a few doves. However the second part of the season should be much better. Still rather hot for this kind of hunting.

Among our local dove hunters are Herbert Wise, Tut Monti, Joe Kern, August Rauxet, Mitch Mitchell, Dec Elliott, John Scafield, Sr. Wop Glover and others. Our local doves are only a small part of the amount which supply dove hunting. Doves are migratory birds and come mostly from Mexico and have not appeared yet. They move mostly as the weather gets cooler. Good dove shooting will come in the second season according to most hunters. From reports quail are plentiful and this season should be an ideal hunters' delight. Of course bird hunting should prove at its best this season providing you have good dogs.

Regarding shrimp the catch is not too good just now. With the price for shrimp at 40 cents a pound it would be a good idea to stock up now and put them in your freezer or refrigerator for future fishing.

Last year in December we paid 85 cents a pound for frozen shrimp. Fish caught with that price for shrimp are rather expensive.

Marco Antonio Novas, 34-year old resident of Colombia, reached New Orleans Saturday this week on his proposed trip around the world on a bicycle. He started from Colombia 18 months ago and hopes to complete his trip in 3 1/2 years. Plenty of bicycling and determination we'll say.

Hard crabbing is still good. Soft crabbing not too hot, but a few can be caught for a sandwich. Flounders are still being caught.

Remember, borrowing of fishing equipment, motors, boats, car carriers, etc., is all right, but remember to return them. The owners would like to use them themselves. Wonder who still has my car carrier?

Local boat owners were kinda worried about hurricane Cindy. Remember—your boat is a prized possession. When you hear a hurricane warning check your boat, see that it is properly anchored, check the rope, it's better to be safe than sorry.

A good suggestion is to check your outboard motor regularly. There is nothing worse than to go fishing and have to row the motor back to the landing. A new spark plug or cleaning the carburetor often will turn a fishing trip into a pleasure instead of a hard ship, not counting the cussing involved.

It's a good idea to always carry a first aid kit in your tackle box. Make it a must. A hook in the hand or elsewhere can be mighty painful. A pair of snips, a little tincture of iodine or merthiolate will take care of the wound until you reach home.

A trip to fishing tackle stores can be mighty interesting. But remember there are a lot of baits made only to sell. Ask those who know. They can tell you the most effective baits. Fish bite most on the baits that resemble the things they are feeding on. For instance, worms, minnows or bugs. The color of the surface baits don't mean much, it's the action that counts.

The steak supper held Saturday night at the Pass Christian Golf Club was an usual grand affair. The main guest was the Great McNutt of WDSU TV fame. A good time was enjoyed by all attending and a bait of food was the result.

Don't know why hurricanes are named after women. But we do know that lots of them are hard to get along with.

It has been the usual idea that fishing is good just after a disturbance such as hurricane Cindy. For some reason fish seem to know when a disturbance is coming and feed up before it comes. They must be hungry after it leaves. They are often called poor fish but they seem to know more about the weather than most fishermen.

Don't blame bad fishing on the fish. Maybe you don't know as much about fishing as you think. Take advice from the old time fishermen. He learned the hard way.

While fishing on the Gail Kay over the weekend at Grand Pass, La., with their parents, Captain and Mrs. H. G. Koch, of Kiln, Miss., Linda caught a 34 pound Red fish and her brother Hansen a 65 pound Stingray.

Has always been a good sport, and loves fishing, golfing and hunting. John was an outstanding football player while attending Tulane University. As Mayor, he is liked by many and was also honored with the title of All-American in the football field.

RESEARCH SHOWS HOW TO MAINTAIN COTTON QUALITY

STATE COLLEGE. Deterioration of cotton between harvest and ginning time has been studied at the Delta Branch Experiment Station in an effort to preserve high quality of both lint and seed during storage.

R. E. Parker, and other U. S. Department of Agriculture engineers working at Delta Station, recently reported on several years of study during which time they stored cotton under varying temperature and humidity conditions.

Mr. Parker summarized his research report as follows:

"Based on research, the following recommendations are suggested to insure the preservation of cotton quality from the time it is harvested to the time it is ginned. 1. Producers should make every effort to harvest only dry cotton. Cotton can be stored reasonably safe if it is picked after morning dews have dried off and before dark.

"2. Ginners should attempt to gin immediately any cotton that arrives at the gin in an extremely wet condition. Ginning of "borderline" loads of cotton may be delayed. However, if these bales of cotton begin to heat, they should be ginned as soon as possible.

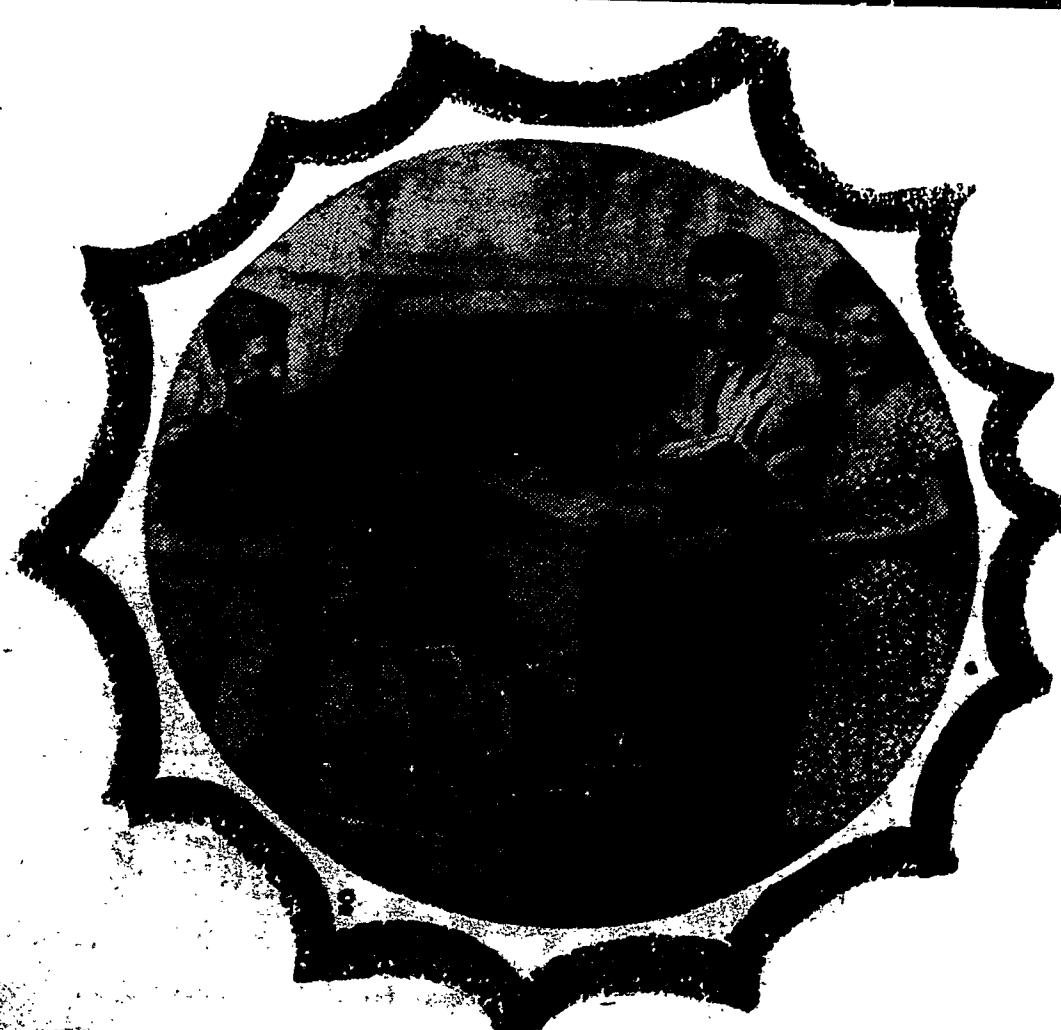

"3. Tramping damp seed cotton on trailers should be avoided. Poor air circulation will permit the bale to hold the heat which is generated within. Open walled or wire mesh trailers are a definite advantage in this respect.

"4. Defoliation is desirable especially if fields are rank, plants are lodged, and boll rot is excessive. Defoliation serves also as a means of minimizing the amount of green trash in mechanically harvested seed cotton."

Nice Things Happen to Systematic Savers

Ever notice how it is with some families? They always seem to have the money to go off on the most exciting vacation trips, buy and furnish the nicest homes, give their children the best educations. Often the answer is not to be found in the size of their income, but in what they DO with it! By systematically saving part of it, they manage to have "what it takes" to enjoy the best things of life. If they save here (as many do) where their money earns interest.

BILL WOULD ALLOW FHA HOUSING FOR MTO EMPLOYEES

WASHINGTON - Senator John Stennis announced Senate passage of a bill which would make possible the construction of housing under FHA for essential employees at the South Mississippi rocket engine testing site.

Stennis said the Mississippi Testing Operation now under construction by NASA in Hancock and Pearl River Counties would be directly affected by the bill which authorizes the Federal Housing Administration to insure mortgages for the financing of housing at essential national defense installations.

The bill extends to 1965 the FHA program for financing of essential housing at research and development installations such as those operated by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration and the Atomic Energy Commission.

The new legislation would authorize federally insured mortgages for single family dwellings and rental housing for essential employees of the giant Mississippi installation which is scheduled to employ upwards of 5,000 persons when it is completed and in full operation by 1965, or later.

Under normal requirements, the FHA must determine that the overall economy of an area justifies the issuance of an insurance commitment. This requirement is waived at NASA and AEC installations under the provisions of the bill passed by the Senate.
